Till We Meet Again

Remembering September 11, 2001

On September 11, 2001, 19 militants associated with the Islamic extremist group al-Qaeda hijacked four airliners and carried out suicide attacks against targets in the United States.

We will never forget and will always pay homage to those lives lost during this horrendous tragedy and will continue to pray for the bereaved families and loved ones left behind. The horror of the collapsing World Trade Center towers, the burning wing of the Pentagon, and the scattered debris of Flight 93 in the Somerset County field will always be a reminder of the destructive nature of sin. Believers, throughout the world, were left shocked, confused, angry, and frightened, their faith tested. But comfort came, not from the secular tributes or memorials to this tragedy, but from the words of the Comforter.

If my people, which are called by my name, shall humble themselves, and pray, and seek my face, and turn from their wicked ways; then will I hear from heaven, and will forgive their sin, and will heal their land. 2 Chronicles 7:14 (extracted from 9/11 sermon Rev. C. M. Alexander)

Therefore, it is through His instructions to us and his words of hope and redemption, that we can remember the victims and pray for their loved ones. It is through His words of love and comfort, that we can remain in constant prayer for the peace of our nation and the world...for God's love transcends all boundaries. Although there will continue to be unyielding reminders of man's inhumanity towards man, as Believers, we can take refuge in His love, an uncompromising, all encompassing love that is found in His Word and in His promises to his children. This, then, becomes the Christian's commemoration to September 11, 2001.

Seek my face...
